ORGANIZE NEW COMPANY

New Officers For New Plant of the Wisconsin Veneer Company Soon to be Constructed.

The prediction made in a recent issue of this paper that the burned factory of the Wisconsin Veneer Co. would be rebuilt here and on a larger scale was not idle comment as is evidenced by the fact that work is already under way on the new plant which is to take the place of the old.

The debris which accumulated before and after the fire is being cleared away by a force of workmen and teams and work on the walls of the new plant will begin at once.

The new company as organized is as follows:

Dr. A. D. Dankle, president.
John Moe, treasurer.
R. C. Dayton, secretary.

Charles Morrill is a member of the board of directors of the Company and will look after the timber purchases.

Mr. Moe will have charge of the workings of the factory and therefor while Mr. Dayton will look after the sales of the finished product and the office affairs.

The main building is to be 64x120 feet in size, two stories and basement. Two dry kilns will be constructed, each containing four compartments. The kilns will be 64x75 feet in dimensions and each compartment will contain about 33,000 cubic feet of air space.

The three boilers which are now in position will be removed and two new ones of much greater capacity will be put in. Considerable steam is used in addition to the amount required by the engine and an increased steam supply will be necessary.

Another big veneer cutting machine will be added to the machinery of the new plant and a new roller system for drying the product as it comes from the knives will be installed. The roller system is a new process but recently put on the market and has proven remarkably successful. The veneer is fed through rolls as it comes wet from the cutting machines and pass on down to the end of the apparatus. At the end of ten minutes the veneer is dry and ready for shipment. The advantage of having one of the dryers is obvious and with it the daily shipments from the factory will be greatly increased.

It is the intention of the company to keep one of the cutters busy on this stock as there is a great demand for that grade of material.

The force of men will probably be increased to meet the conditions and the new factory will in the future, even to a greater degree than in the past, prove its worth as an employer of labor.

It is expected that the factory will be in operation within 90 days and with that end in view work will be pushed with all possible speed.

Many orders have been filed pending future delivery by patrons of the plant. There will be an ample supply of timber to keep the factory in operation as purchases have been going on ever since the fire and with Mr. Morrill in the woods it is pretty much an assured thing that the plant will be well supplied with logs.

The Orpheus Orchestra Dance.

The first ball and concert of Rhinelander's first musical organization at the Armory last Friday night was very well attended and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The Orpheus Orchestra, under the management of Walter J. Schlemm, has made its initial bow to the public. There were eleven members of the orchestra and the selections rendered both in concert and dance were up-to-date and very well executed. Walter as a director surprised and delighted the crowd assembled in the spacious hall and many were the hearty endorsements as signs of well meant approbation.

To many the fact that the youngest man in the orchestra was its leader was a surprise but there was no hint of ridicule when the band began to play. The time was perfect, the harmonious effects pleasing and the execution right through of a character to excite warm praise.

If the orchestra can be kept up to its present standard there will be little occasion for outside music being employed by dance or concert promoters. Director Schlemm is entitled to hearty support and should receive it at the hands of those who have it to give.

Typhoid Results in Death.

Typhoid fever has claimed many victims in the city this summer, the latest death being that of Martin Yenter, a young man seventeen years of age, who passed away last Thursday morning at St. Mary's hospital. He was taken ill with the disease several weeks ago, while in the employ of Brown Bros. at their camp near State Line. Yenter's home was at Botary postoffice, a short distance from Amherst in Portage county. His father, August Yenter, came up Thursday evening and returned with the remains the following day. Interment was made in the cemetery at Amherst Sunday.

A THRILLING ESCAPE.

Reported By One Who Knew the Parties at Menominee Junction.

Tuesday afternoon, George Lavine, pilot for the Hazelhurst & S.E. Logging train to Camp 25, and Wm. Lightner, engineer of Yawkey's "pecky" were fishing for pickerel in Horsehead lake. As the fish were biting good they took no notice of the lapse of time and darkness overtook them without warning. Not having been on the lake more than a dozen times they became confused as to their location and became lost, spending the night in the woods about a dozen rods from the road to Tomahawk Lake. Their catch of fish being too heavy to carry they dragged them along in vain endeavor to get out of the woods. To add to their discomfort they had both fallen in the lake and their matches were soaked and they were unable to start a fire. A wild cat attracted by the trail of the pickerel followed them and scared them so they started to run. They took to the woods rather than to a big pine tree and each tried to see who could get there first, there being no "after you my dear Alphonse" business about it. George has lost about 15 pounds of arctophila and Lightner's hair is slightly gray as a result of their fright. After this they will carry a compass.

MAY CHANGE ON SUNDAY

Reported Here That Division Changes on the "Soo" Road Will Be Made Here September 27.

The division changes which have been planned for Rhinelander by the "Soo" officials will doubtless be made here the first of next week. The hotel at Pennington will be closed Sunday night and its closing will mean that the crew of freight trains No. 16 and 19, both fast through freights, will be up here together with the crews of all extra freights running both east and west.

A number of changes called for by the proposed division transfer have already been made and with the exception of some necessary alterations in the yard which cannot be made until spring everything is in readiness for the change.

Several conductors who will make their headquarters here, who are now living at Gladstone where they own and occupy homes, will move here as soon as they can secure residences. Those who have canvassed the city report that there is a great scarcity of rentable habitations here and it is quite likely that if the situation does not change by spring that several new buildings will be put up as the men desire to make this city their home rather than live in Gladstone.

The prospects are favorable that several desirable additions to the city's population will be made with the arrival of the new crews.

Locates at Everett.

Dan Sullivan has left Rhinelander, after making this city his headquarters for the past twenty years and gone to Everett, Wash., where he has engaged in business and will reside there permanently. He and his wife, accompanied by Harry and Emma Sloan, left for the West last Saturday morning. They were joined at Osceola, St. Croix county, by Mrs. John C. Curran and daughter Mark who were on their way home after making a visit in this state of several weeks.

MANY NEW ATTRACTIONS

Opera Season Opens Up Here With Good List of Attractions—Several Good Shows are Booked.

Mr. Harry Gordon, in introducing "A Royal Slave" to the patrons of our theater, not only promises, but assures us, that this production is a distinct departure from all others that have been presented in our city.

Mr. Clarence Bennett, playwright, artist and producer, who heads the cast, is an actor of long standing, having supported Booth, Barrett and many others in the classic drama of the old school.

"A Royal Slave" was taken from an actual occurrence, the scenes being reproduced from photograph of old Mexico around which the play was written. The characters of "Aguila," "El Capitán," a noted bandit; and Juan "Alvarez," figure in many parts of Mexican history. The cast has been carefully selected, the members of the company being especially engaged for their respective roles.

Music hath charms to soothe a savage, no doubt, but the Schubert Symphony (Tub and Lady Quartette are not traveling for the express purpose of soothing savages. Neither are they trying to educate the people. They are entertaining the public, and in a manner that is thoroughly enjoyable from first to last. Their program is full of novelty and artistic elegance, besides giving our readers many opportunities to indulge in the world-famous American laugh. If you want to be happy on the evening of October 1st you can be by going to hear this company's entertainment at the opera house.

Next Tuesday evening all lovers of high class music will have the privilege of hearing Mme. Rosa d'Erina and the humorist, G. H. Vinton, at the Congregational church. This is a return date secured by general demand on their appearance here last spring. As a prima donna soprano and concert organist, Mme. d'Erina has not been equalled here. Her work is superb and is enhanced by the clever work of Mr. Vinton as a high tenor in humorous and pathetic songs, ballads, and character sketches. This concert is rich in varied music and humor. Tuesday, September 29. Tickets are 25 cents.

Gus Sun's minstrels are booked in here early in October for a date at the Grand. Gus's minstrels have a national reputation extending from golf to golf but this will be their first appearance here. Other good companies have made Rhinelander but the Sun outfit of songsters and harmony protomers have passed us by. Wait for them and watch their smoke for they're good, always were good and have, according to all reports improved with age. A first-class band and orchestra is carried. Remember them.

George Whitman the principal comedian in "Man to Man" plays the part of "Bud." It has become his nickname to such extent that recently his two-year-old hopeful George, Jr., astonished his fond parent by greeting him with "Hello Bud." This was the last straw and Whitman has tearfully announced this to be his last season as "Bud." Next year he will "star" under the able management of Butterfield and Bromm in a rural comedy entitled "The Village Post."

Holse Davis known as "the little girl with the big voice" is being featured jointly with George H. Whitman this season in the big scenic comedy drama "Man to Man" which will be seen here in October.

A Lady Quartette is always a source of delight to lovers of beautiful music, and the Schubert Lady Quartette is one of the best.

Death of Mrs. Will Morris.

After an illness of over six months' duration, confined to her bed most of the time, Mrs. William Morris died at her home on Eagle street last Saturday. Mrs. Morris was a woman about thirty years of age and had resided in Rhinelander for several years. She was well known to nearly all our people. A husband and family of three small children are left to mourn her demise. The funeral was conducted Tuesday afternoon from the house, Rev. Wolfe of the Free Methodist church performing the last rites. Interment was made at Forest Home cemetery. The funeral services were attended by many friends and neighbors and a number of beautiful floral tributes were contributed.

Good Scores Made.

High scores made by bowlers at the Lawlis alleys this week are as follows: Mack McCarthy, Minneapolis, 257; John Barnes 218; Will Morgan 203. Mr. McCarthy's score is the highest bowled since the alleys were re-opened some weeks ago.

NOT A SUCCESS FINANCIALLY.

Oneida County Fair This Season Suffers Through Bad Weather.

The Oneida County Fair Association will be short about $900 on the present year's business owing (as Dr. Welch, the secretary puts it,) to "a multiplicity of circumstances over which the society had no control." Every effort was put forth by the officers to make the eighth annual fair a success and one of the banner exhibitions this county has pulled off along agricultural lines but the rain god interfered with the plans of the society to such an extent that a three days' program had to be squeezed into one and the resulting loss in gate receipts crippled the finances of the society seriously.

It is beginning to be a well recognized fact that the officials of the fair have hard jobs on their hands and thankless ones, which accounts for the annual change in officers.

A First-Class Organist.

Rosa d'Erina, who appears in concert at the Congregational church next Tuesday, is to open the new organ in St. Patrick's church Escanaba, Sunday the 27th. She also dedicated the new organ in St. Patrick's church, Green Bay, last Sunday. None should fail to hear her.

DOINGS AT HIGH SCHOOL

(BY DOUGLAS ANDERSON)

Practice in football has been renewed and with a return of Dr. Garner this week a decided reversal in position is expected. The first game of the season will be played with Antigo at Rhinelander October 31. Four games have already been scheduled and negotiations are being carried on with Wausau for additional games.

Owing to a teachers' institute which is to be held in the main room Friday and Saturday there will be no school on Friday. Mr. Lowell urgently requests that all pupils interested in this branch of school work should take advantage of this exceptional opportunity and attend one or both days if possible.

The class in Med. Hist. is progressing nicely. This study is very difficult and being a new study in the course great credit is reflected upon Miss Swain for the able manner in which it is being taught to the pupils.

Sigga Segerstrom was absent from school Wednesday.

Orlo Stevens was absent from school Monday.

New Agent Arrives.

W. E. Riner arrived in the city last Thursday night from Des Moines, Mich., and the following morning assumed the duties of agent for the North-Western line at this station. He was formerly agent for the same company at Des Moines and is a man well versed in the railroad business. Mr. Riner fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of H. C. Branger and will be permanently located here. He was shown about the city Friday by Mr. Braeger, who introduced him to our business people. He is a man of very pleasing appearance and already has made a good impression among those he met.

Dies of Heart Failure.

Charles Dasher, a man well advanced in years, died Monday at 10 o'clock of heart failure. For some time Dasher had been in failing health. During the greater portion of the summer he lived at Roosevelt with his son-in-law, Tom Cummins, and family, visiting Rhinelander frequently. The remains were brought to this city Monday afternoon and the funeral held the following morning from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Herick on the north side, Rev. C. W. Palmer of the Baptist church officiating. Burial was made in Forest Home cemetery.

Killed Near Bayfield.

Charles Gorman, a brakeman in the employ of the Robbins Lumber Company on their railroad near Bayfield, was accidentally killed while in the discharge of his duties last Friday. No particulars of the affair are known in this city. The remains were shipped here over the Northwestern road from Bayfield Saturday morning and were taken to his home in Canada over the "Soo" road Sunday. The body was accompanied by four brothers all of whom are employed in the woods in this section. Gorman was slightly known in Rhinelander.

From the Health Officer

The absurdly wild and exaggerated reports regarding diphtheria are not only thoroughly disgusting to me but speak very poorly for the veracity and judgment of some of our citizens. The condition is not, and has not been, at all alarming and would not warrant closing the schools or public library. There are but eight cases in the city at the present time, nearly all in a mild form.

THE STORY TELLER

WHAT I WANT.

I want you on my knee,
And to hear you sigh,
And I want your arms about my neck
Like they used to be;
And I want to hear you say,
Laugh and cry out "Hark-a-bow!"
With sweet mischief in your eyes
As they used to be.

I want to see you run,
And to hear you laugh for fun,
And to see your curls as they used to
In the sun;
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do;
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do.

I want to hear you "Talk"
And to see your smile awake
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do;
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do;
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do.

I want to hear you "Talk"
And to see your smile awake
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do;
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do;
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do.

I want to hear you "Talk"
And to see your smile awake
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do;
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do;
And to hear you say and do
All the things you used to do.

husband's sister, who had brought him up from backwater.

"However," she insisted, "you must admit, John, that she has given you precious little attention since the boy died."

The man lifted his hand, enjoining silence.

"Now, I never was much of a believer in divorce, myself," she kept on; "but it appears to me that that's about the only thing left for you now."

Carrington looked up quickly, a challenge in his eyes. "What do you mean by that, Esther?"

"Mean?" she retorted, scornfully; "is it possible, John Carrington, that you are such a fool as not to know the talk your wife's been making around town with that Etheridge person?"

The man's face flushed a slow red under its mask of bronze, and the eyes he turned to her were terrible in their sternness.

"That will do!" he said, in a concentrated voice. After a bit he went on more calmly, a little sadly: "Maybe it's the truth that she doesn't care for me any longer; I don't blame her for that, though. No man or woman, either, can govern these things; but, in God's name, Esther, don't tell me that a woman like Winona could deliberately put a stain on her dead baby's memory!"

The other gave a little short, sneering laugh. "Very well," she responded, curtly, "I've warned you—that's all. When she has succeeded in dragging your name through the mire, you'll remember that your sister tried to open your eyes in time."

Carrington rose and moved away toward the grave. "Leave me now," he said, coldly, "and never attempt to reopen the subject. Your advice is well-meant, I don't doubt that; but you have made a very serious mistake in following me here with garbled tales; and let me tell you this much, whatever my wife does or has done, she is the stainless mother of my dead boy."

THE CAT AND THE MICE.

Had the Master of the House.

A Certain House was much infested with Mice. The owner brought home a Cat, a famous mouser, who soon made such havoc among the little folk, that those who remained resolved they would never leave the upper shelves. The Cat grew hungry and thin in consequence, and, driven to her wits' end, hung by her hind-legs to a peg in the wall, and pretended to be dead. An old Mouse came to the edge of the shelf, and, seeing through the deception, cried out: "Ah, ah, Mrs. Pussy! We should not come near you even if your skin were stuffed with straw."

MORAL.—Trust no one who is a second time who has deceived them once, and, indeed, we cannot tell too often in following this rule, for those who have been deceived once are apt to be deceived again.

IN THE FAR FROZEN NORTH.

Trip Through Alaskan Wilderness Described by a Department Official.

Under the direction of the war department in 1898 A. W. Gumaer was the guide and surveyor of the all-American route from Valdez to Eagle City, Alaska, when the country was an unknown wilderness, where no white man had ever set foot.

"Our party," said Mr. Gumaer, according to a Washington report, "was out of touch with civilization from February to November, during which time the Spanish-American war was fought. We knew nothing of the conflict until we reached Forty-Mile river, 60 miles below Dawson City."

"Our party consisted of five men—Lieut. P. G. Love, U. S. A.; Stephen Birch, surveyor; two army packers, myself, I pack horses and three burros, which we took as an experiment. They only lasted 100 miles, when they were abandoned. The Montana pack ponies were the only ones that could stand the strain even in the summer time. In winter only reindeer and dogs can endure the cold."

"Our expedition had to cross the Valdez glacier, an extremely hazardous undertaking on account of the numerous crevasses and fissures of from four to ten feet in width. To get over them we used snow bridges, roped together, as they do in Switzerland. Many people have since lost their lives in following this perilous trail, but since then a route has been found by Capt. Abercrombie around the glacier, and no more lives need be sacrificed."

"Within two years a railroad will penetrate the new gold fields at Tanana, that are just now causing a sensation among hunters of the precious metal. Valdez, with the most beautiful harbor in the world and surrounded by mountains 5,000 feet high, will be the future capital of Alaska. The territory has a future splendid beyond the imagination of the most enthusiastic citizens, and in dollars and cents will give greater returns than any territory ever owned or ever to be possessed by the United States."

At His Own Estimate. His height was a little over five feet. He was slender in proportion. But he was proud—O, so proud! He stood erect and with folded arms, near the rail of the steamer, and gazed upon the lake in sternal, majestic silence. Presently the captain approached him and touched his arm.

"What is it, my good fellow?" he said, turning his head slowly and eying him from head to foot.

"Would you mind stepping over this way a little?" asked the captain, touching his hat.

"What for, my good fellow?" "To trim the ship. You are giving it a decided list to port."—Chicago Tribune.

Mosquitoes on Long Island have undertaken, for the protection of their horses, to fight the mosquitoes which have long swarmed over the little neck of land during the summer season. The owner of a well-known stable is the prime mover in the crusade against the mosquito, it having been discovered that a few mosquitoes are capable of putting a nervous racing horse "out of condition." The proposed remedy is to frequently feed the lowlands with fresh sea water. It having been observed that mosquitoes do not breathe in water which is frequently renewed, but only in stagnant water.

Family Subject. Wife (after returning from church)—You should have been in church this morning. We had a beautiful sermon. Husband—I'll bet you can't repeat the text.

Yes I can. It was the tenth verse of the 16th chapter of Ezekiel—I girded thee about with fine linen, and I covered thee with silk.

Hah! It is no wonder you remembered it.—London Tit-Bits.

Excuse for a Holiday. South Germans seize upon every possible excuse for a holiday. At a Bavarian village, not long ago, a postman who had served 25 years was made the hero of a celebration which consisted of a procession followed by a concert and a banquet lasting till late at night.

Collection for Fowls. A guillotine for the palatial decapitation of fowls purchased by the public has been installed in the market of Gothenburg by the Society of the prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

THE JOYS OF SUNBURN.

A Luxury of Summer That Is Highly Valued and Enjoyed by Many People.

Among the horses of the sun is Erythraea. He is the "red producer." All of them, according to the Greek and Latin myth, "breathe fire from their nostrils," but it is this one that must be credited with those peach-bloom tints common to late spring and the summer. A half hour out in the open will convince one that the "red producer" is tainting the sunshine with his fiery breath, says the Baltimore American. Hail, Erythraea!

Sunburn to the city youth, and age as well, is one of the luxuries of the summer. It is becoming to some; some it makes hideous; along with it may come freckles galore; there may be days and nights of discomfort and cold-cream poulticing, but none of these possibilities rob the sunbeam of its charm. It serves an outward and visible sign of a good time somewhere.

"Where did you get it?" addressed to the wearer of a newly borrowed visage will, nine times out of ten, bring out the story of a day, or days, spent away from the town, and there will be a touch of pride in the tone of the narrator. He will talk of tennis, golf, boating, bathing and the like, until you're sorry you got him going. There are those who will bewail the fate that browned them. Nine out of ten are unwittingly or maliciously prevaricating.

Sunburn, when all is said and done, is a distinct joy of the summer. It speaks of the big outdoor world. It is the seal and sign of avocations which may not be pursued by most for eight months of the year, and those avocations all out the census of the chief recreative doings of both sexes and all ages. Sunburn is eloquent of fresh air, for the sunbather is the bonny quiet to the breeze. It is synonymous with energy, and the energy is the tell-tale of life. The dead blanch, the living breathe and burn, and gain to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sunburn burns. The first day's outing is apt to cook the back of the neck, the cheeks, the nose, the hands and arms, and the hot breath of Erythraea reaches every exposed square inch. But there are scores of cooling salves and lotions, with cold cream and witch hazel ointment on the list, to make sad and slaking endure but for a night. Everybody knows what a day, even in a nice, stinging sunshine, means in this respect; but, safe to say, there will be no fewer outdoor seekers for this fact. Sunburn and love have many things in common, but, at any rate, both are a sweet pain; both know no cure but time.

The season for this is here. Erythraea is surely smothering. Those who have been following golf balls on recent days, who have been at tennis or have chased the baseball about the lot know it, perhaps too well. Lay on, Erythraea!

Antiquity of America. America is older than the old world, and its aborigines are remnants of races of men that inhabited the earth before the present old world races rose to prominence. The land distribution was different in those days. There was communication between what are now the north of America and the north of Asia, and the climate was much warmer in these regions. Evidence of these facts are being found every day in both continents. The latest evidence is that collected by the Jesuit expedition into the unexplored heart of Siberia, which recently returned to New York after a two years' exploration.—Boston Budget.

Taught by Parrots. Miss Nancy—I wonder why it is that sailors are such terrible swearers? Cousin Tom—Why, don't you know? They learn profanity of the parrots. I thought everybody knew that.

Why, of course! Wonder it had not occurred to me!—Boston Transcript.

In New York State. Bank Superintendent Kilburn, in his last report, says that there has been no failure among trust companies in the state of New York in 18 years, and with a single exception, no trust company has in recent years sustained an impairment of capital.

In Lake Superior. The bodies of the drowned are said not to rise to the surface in Lake Superior. They are refrigerated, and the decomposition which causes the ascent of human bodies in other waters less cold does not take place.

MAY WED A DUKEDOM.

Gladys Deacon, American Beauty and Actress, is in Favor with English Peers.

Gladys Deacon has been the guest of the duke of Norfolk and his sister, Lady Mary Howard, at Arundel castle. The invitation extended to the lovely American girl has been a subject of much comment in London, as the duke is one of the most reserved of men and has no liking for the new and rich who year after year get a firmer footing in London society.

Since the death of the duchess sixteen years ago the duke has lived almost the life of a monk except when official duties at court compelled him to appear in public. Moreover, the duke is not a lover of young people and seldom is seen speaking to the young girls of society.

That Miss Deacon has been down to Arundel by the duke's special invitation has, of course, given rise to rumor, and it is suggested that Miss Deacon being a Roman Catholic and being anxious for a direct heir to his dukedom, the bright American girl might have a chance one day of wearing a coronet with strawberry leaves. The duke is a great scholar. Miss Deacon is an exceptionally clever young woman, an well read and a brilliant conversationalist.

Writing in a recent number of M. A. P. (Mainly About People) T. P. O'Connor says under the heading: "Two American Beauties."

"The Miss Deacons have arrived in London for the season. Once again America has given its beauty and charm to the old world."

"Miss Gladys Deacon made her first appearance in England about two years ago and was chaperoned by Mrs. Arthur Paget and by the duchess of Marlborough. Her friendship with the latter dates from 1895, when she acted as one of the duchess' child bridesmaids in the memorable wedding in New York. This youthful intimacy was maintained, and Miss Deacon formed one of a brilliant house party at Blenheim when the German crown prince was the guest of the occasion."

Her style of beauty is fair, blue-eyed and radiant, she has a rose-leaf complexion, sunny hair and the sweetest of smiles. She has been educated on the continent and spent some years in a French convent. As a consequence she is a good linguist, cosmopolitan and thoroughly up to date.

"For a girl in 'smart' society she is a simple dresser, wears few jewels and prefers girlish gowns of crepe, muslin or chiffon. Her portrait has been painted by Whistler and by several other noted artists in London and Paris."

"The younger Miss Deacon is almost as beautiful as her sister, but in an entirely different style. She is taller, darker, more stately and much more reserved. Her school days have been passed in Berlin."

"These two lovely Americans appeared at Mrs. Adair's recent fancy dress ball, one dressed as a Greek maiden and the other as Primavera after Botticelli's famous picture."

WHAT THIEVES THINK.

They Are Held in Check at Weddings and Funerals by Superstitious Fears.

The pickpocket is superstitious. He will rarely rob a person who squints, this being accounted a certain sign of disaster, and if it happens that the purse he steals contains foreign as well as British money, it is believed to augur that he will travel a good deal in the immediate future; but whether in the company of a couple of police officers or not there is nothing to show.

Weddings and funerals are significant events for the professional thief, says an exchange. To pick a pocket at a funeral would be to court immediate disaster, but many of them think if a purse stolen at a wedding contains gold it portends the best of luck for the thief during the ensuing six months.

Some pickpockets have a favorite pair of boots that they wear as long as they can keep them on their feet, and if they are not arrested while they are wearing them they cut the boots into little square pieces and give them away as "lucky tokens" to their friends.

Delicious Summer Squashes. Crook necks or saucers, the summer squash, is a delicate vegetable, and one not served often enough on the average table. It contains little real nutriment, but is one of those vegetables whose mission it is to assist digestion of other food and to afford that variety which helps the appetite. Wash and pare one or two and cut into square pieces. Put the pieces into boiling water and cook for 20 or 30 minutes. Drain off every drop of water and beat with a potato masher until quite smooth. Stir into the squash a small cupful of milk, a tablespoonful of melted butter, two beaten eggs, pepper and salt. Better still, stir all these together and add to the squash after mixing. Turn into a buttered dish, sprinkle with bread crumbs and bits of butter and bake.

REGARDING THE HAIR.

Proper Care of It Is a Toilet Duty Which But Few Women Seem to Have Mastered.

Next in importance to the complexion in effect upon a woman's looks is her hair. As in the case of the complexion, it lies largely with its owner as to whether it shall be attractive or unpleasing in appearance. This is not the view held by numbers of women. They think they have been born with hair of this or that character, and that they can not hope to change it. It is curly they rejoice; if it is straight and stiff they deplore; but they do not think they can get the better of nature. So, too, with the women of sparse locks. They mourn over the thinness of nature in this regard, but it does not occur to many of them to take simple measures for improving the quantity of their hair.

Many a girl who has sleepily and reluctantly given her hair the prescribed hundred strokes every night before going to bed would have rejoiced to know that it was one of the worst things she could do for her head. Where that hair-brushing theory originated it is hard to tell, but every woman has heard it, and nearly every woman has been foolish enough to do it at some time or another in the course of her life.

The office of the hair brush is to remove dust from the surface of the hair, to stroke down and smooth the snarls and to distribute through the hair the natural oil that should be spread from the scalp.

Instead of doing this most women labor their heads with the brush, dragging out and breaking off hairs in clusters, irritating the scalp and injuring the roots of the hair. Watch the average woman brush the hair, and see the vigor she puts into it. She is not satisfied with the brushing of the hair alone, but goes to the scalp, and brushes this, as though it were a surface of metal instead of being skin filled with a network of fine nerves. It is altogether possible that she uses a wire hair brush as an instrument of torture, thereby cutting off many hairs that the ordinary bristles would spare.

So far as keeping the hair and scalp clean, the best of women are as likely as not to be beginners. I have known women, tidy in other respects, who did not wash the hair once in six months. I have known of children 12 to 15 years old who could not recollect ever having been told of the necessity of shampooing the hair. Their mothers kept the dandruff from accumulating by means of a fine comb! The women who do recognize the possibility that the hair occasionally needs to be washed as much as any other part of the body very often employ agents that are almost as bad as neglect would be. Women wash their hair with baking soda, with borax, with ammonia, with potash, with soaps of different kinds, with alcohol, with almost any lotion that is recommended by equally ignorant friends. These preparations are used also with a total disregard of the proportions in which any one of them should be added to the water for shampooing, or of the character of the hair or scalp to which they are applied.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

ARTISTIC DECORATION. Excellent Effect May Be Produced by the Clever Arrangement of Odd Bits of China.

The illustration suggests an artistic and completely satisfactory arrangement for turning a miscellaneous collection of china to eminently decorative account. Supposing the plates, jugs and bric-a-brac here shown to be of varied and strong coloring—or indeed, if they were of a blue color or any other uniform tone—a plain black-ground is necessary to give them their fullest value. Accordingly they are ranged upon a narrow shelf, placed at the height of an ordinary picture-rail below a frieze distempered a pale of responsive comradeship which well-nigh sent me into a fit of vertigo.

ARTIST'S ARRANGEMENT. daffodil-yellow. This shelf, it should be noticed, does not run straight around the walls, but is fashioned with bracket-like projections, on which jugs, vases and such like may stand. The wall below is spaced out with "stiles," such as panels filled with Fabrikons or some other coarse canvas, which in this instance I imagine to be of a soft gray-green. The stiles and moldings may be painted to match the green, may be white or in dull, unvarnished oak. If water colors, tinted engravings, silhouettes or small pictures of any kind have to be taken into account, the canvas left perfectly plain forms a charming background, if china alone forms the ornaments.

"That supper was a red-letter occasion. I had never been much of a 'ladies' man, but had met many women of all degrees, and never had I met one with the charm of this mystifying product of the matrimonial agencies. She was so evidently up-to-date, so well-informed, so wise to everything going on in the world, so thoroughly posted in affairs and so well able to discuss current topics, that I could not reconcile her actual sell with her position as a woman of fortune seeking a husband through the mountebank agencies. Why! without a cent, she was a prize for a prince.

"While we sat at the little table in the cozy corner, a party consisting of newspaper fellows and an actor or two came in for a bite. As I nodded carelessly to them, and they returned my salutation, a puzzled expression crossed Miss Norman's face.

"Who are those people?" she asked, sharply.

"Oh, Tom Bates, of the Universe; Jimmie Burns, of the Recorder; Louie Drake, of the Clarion, and Harold S. Hubert, the actor," I replied.

"Do you know them?" she asked.

Then I recovered my balance and replied:

"I met Bates, casually, the other night, and he pointed the others out to me."

Then I changed the subject.

Later on we went to the theater, and before leaving her I made an engagement to take her riding on the following afternoon.

I lay in my room and smoked that night until far past dawn, buried in visions. The evening had strengthened and vivified every impression of my first meeting with the girl. There was no question but she was a lady in every sense of the word—and her alert intelligence was not the least of her charms. There was no dozing it, I was madly in love with her. All my doubts based on finding her at a matrimonial agency were cast aside.

"I would marry her without a question as to her object in being there," I said.

Then I groaned as I thought of the barrier of her wealth and the cheap part I was playing. For, of course, I must be honest with her.

Finally I made my resolve. I could not remain in so equivocal a position. I would make a clean breast of it, and hope for her friendship at least. More I dare not dream.

Perhaps years would efface the memory of my duplicity, and when I should have attained a high position in my profession, perhaps—who knows?

The next afternoon, far out on a lone-some drive, I pulled myself together and told her the whole wretched business.

"I owe you an apology as abject as a man can make, Miss Norman," I started in, tragically. Then I hurried on: "I am compelled to confess to you that I am not what I have pretended to be. My name is not William Adams, but Stewart Vincent. I am a newspaper reporter doing the matrimonial agencies, getting material for a story for the Clarion. It was good enough fun before I met you, but I am heartily ashamed of myself now, and I humbly beg your pardon. I desire your honest friendship too much to go on with the deceit longer."

I had kept my eyes resolutely on the horse. I now turned to her, and was surprised to find her face suffused with blushes and her eyes downcast.

Then she uttered a merry little laugh and looked at me with a mischievous glance that nearly caused me to drop the reins and gather her in my arms.

"It's til for tat," she said. "I am on the same assignment for the Universe, and—and I was just thinking how dreadfully cheap I was. My name is Eleanor Vance. I guess it's a case of two fools."

A great joy leaped through my veins.

"Not if we can be friends—no I don't mean that," I said—"if we can go on with this courtship, Miss Vance. My Sunday editor told me to follow this assignment clear to the altar—in fact, to get married, if necessary to get a good story. I consider it very necessary. I haven't a dollar in the world, but I can always hold a good job. Will you help me follow out my orders?"

"Miss were the same," she replied, softly, "and two salaries are twice as much as one,"—this in a whisper.

Then I dropped the reins and the horse had its own way for a season.

Two such stories never appeared as those in the next issues of the Sunday Clarion and the Sunday Universe. Mine led to a permanent job, and the Universe lost Miss Vance shortly, greatly to the gain of a cozy uptown flat.

And I did not begrudge paying both agencies liberal fees.

RED LIGHT IN SMALLPOX.

Reported to Be Helpful in Preventing Disfiguration and Death from Suppuration.

Fifteen states that it may be considered an irrefutable fact that daylight, and especially the chemical rays, has a most injurious effect on the course of smallpox, as the suppuration of the vesicles is due to the effect of light, says the New York Medical Journal. Consequently, it is possible to avoid the suppuration and its consequences by protecting the patients from the action of light. On the other hand, light seems to have no action on the smallpox infection itself, and death caused by the latter cannot be prevented by excluding the chemical rays; but the avoidance of suppuration is of the greatest importance, as the suppuration stage is most dangerous, and the greatest number of deaths are due to suppuration.

Further, the numerous complications and sequelae due to suppuration may be avoided, as well as the disfiguring pitting. Since smallpox is a disease in which the public health authorities oblige the patient to go into a particular hospital, he has a right to ask that he shall not there be unnecessarily exposed to dangers that may be fatal, or are at least liable to disfigure him for life. It must be considered absolutely unwarrantable on the part of the public health authorities to treat serious cases of smallpox in which suppuration might be expected, in hospitals where patients are exposed to daylight. As to the private physician, it must be considered a gross shortcoming if, as soon as he has diagnosed smallpox, he does not make preparations to prevent the patient from being exposed to daylight. It is everywhere possible to darken the windows by curtains, and a candle will supply all the necessary light.

PLANS FIRST AND SECOND FLOORS

Literally hundreds of thousands of dollars have been wasted in New Jersey and on Long Island in these efforts to "exterminate" the mosquitoes by the use of petroleum. The huge oil-fed mosquitoes are even invading Manhattan Island this year as they never did before. It requires only a good, stiff breeze from the Jersey side, to wait billions of them over the Hudson to New York, and people living within half a mile of the Hudson water front in New York, especially up Riverside driveway, where the North river is comparatively narrow, are investing in mosquito screens this year as they never did before. It looks as if the mosquito exterminating campaignists will weather charges with greater accuracy than heretofore. The bearing of the discovery on astronomical speculation, also, is important.

Unique Submarine Boat.

The new boat of M. Turc, of the French navy, designed to pass through the waves without roll or pitch, is described as a combination of submarine and high platform. The submarine is 200 feet long, 75 feet wide and 20 feet deep, and is to contain boilers, engine and steering gear, which will be submerged to a depth of 12 feet. From the submarine will rise vertically two floats, 65 feet apart, each 200 feet long and 10 feet wide.

VEGETABLE EXHIBIT IS FINE.

Fair Again Demonstrates That Onida Soil Is of the Best.

Despite the fact that the steady downpour of rain which prevailed during the Onida County fair last week prevented many from making entries, the displays in all departments exceeded those of any previous year. Sec. T. R. Welch of the Agricultural Association informs us that the amount of money to be paid out this year in premiums will amount to between $150 and $200. In the vegetable department, the farmers made a splendid showing, and although the season has not been a very favorable one for crops, the display of grains, fruits and minor vegetables could hardly have been better. The potato display was exceptionally fine and showed off to good advantage the resources of the county as a section for raising this staple and vegetable. In the main building there were good exhibitions, made by ladies, both of the city and county, of art, fancy work and crocheting. The displays were all of a high order and were greatly admired by all visitors to that section of the building. The live stock sheds were well filled with a number of fancy bred horses, cattle, sheep and swine, the display in that line being all and even better than could be expected. There was also a good showing of poultry.

One of the most conspicuous features at the fair was that of Eugene Shepard. Gene had built up, artificial lakes, displays of implements of war and trophies of the chase for the entertainment of those who passed the gates. He also served bean soup, baked, stewed and boiled, together with other varied and diverse dishes that took well with the crowds that sat at his tables.

Gene did not play even when it came to figuring up the cost but he has no complaint to make.

Death of Rev. Dr. Franklin.

We regret to chronicle the death of Rev. Dr. Franklin, which occurred Monday afternoon at the residence of his brother, John Franklin, county councillor. During the great part of the summer he has been staying in Kingston and receiving attendance at the hospital. About two weeks ago he returned to the home of his brother. The illness which ultimately resulted in the reverend gentleman's death was not regarded as serious until a few days ago when he was suddenly taken worse. The cause of death was heart disease and dropsy.

The late Rev. Benjamin Franklin was born on May 15, 1851, and was a prominent clergyman of the Methodist church, and shortly before coming on the visit to his brothers was engaged in the Northwest Territories. Some five years ago his wife died, and having no family, the brothers and sisters among whom are John Franklin, of Rockford, Ill., Franklin, of Calumet, Ill., Franklin, of Rhinelander, Wis., and Mrs. Sarah Taylor of Chrysalis, Manitoba, are left to mourn his loss.

The funeral took place today at 10 o'clock at the Methodist church at Madison, Wis., after which the remains were taken on the afternoon train to Richmond, Pa., for interment.

It is to be regretted that a life so well qualified for Christian work, either as a pastor or teacher, should be cut off in the midst of usefulness.—Brookville (Ont.) Times.

Will Leave Rhinelander.

Rev. F. F. Wolfe of the Free Methodist church attended the yearly conference conducted last week at Richland Center. Rev. Wolfe, we are informed, is about to leave Rhinelander for new fields of labor. He has been stationed here for three years and during that time has made many friends not only among the followers of his own belief, but other denominations as well. He will deliver his farewell sermon next Sunday morning at half past ten o'clock. Rev. Wolfe will be transferred to Beaver Dam. His successor here will be the Rev. D. O. Dietzman of Richland Center.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

C. H. Hartley, superintendent of the Kaakana-Ashland division of the North-Western line, and Assistant L. N. Gately, and traveling auditor L. P. Sandon were in the city last Friday evening for several hours. The party occupied Mr. Hartley's private car.

John J. Berns and Rev. Vessey made a boat trip down the Wisconsin river to Tomahawk last Sunday. They left this city in the morning and arrived at their destination about six o'clock that evening. On account of the high water the gentlemen experienced no difficulty in getting over the rapids or waterfalls enroute, and report a very pleasant trip.

William Shannon departed Tuesday morning for his former home in Appleton to remain a few days on business and pleasure. When he returns he will again engage in the grocery business here and will be located in the Langdon building opposite the Rapids House. Mr. Shannon has had plenty of experience in the grocery business.

R. D. E. F. Darow, formerly in the " Soo " depot here but lately agent at Prentice Junction and Hermannville now holds the position of agent at Manitowish, Mich.

The automobile which recently made a trip up through this section from Chicago, loading four gentlemen bound for Trout Lake, went through Rhinelander on its return trip to the city Sunday morning. The return trip was made by way of Merrill, Wausau and Stevens Point, and providing everything went favorably the party arrived in Chicago today.

One of Brown Bros.' logging locomotives at State Line jumped the track last Saturday afternoon, rolled down a steep embankment, and was badly demolished. At the time the accident happened the engine was going at a good rate of speed. The engineer, El. Washburn of this city, together with his fireman, narrowly escaped serious injury. A pet dog owned by one of the camp boys, which was on the engine, was instantly killed. The wrecked engine was removed to the car shops at Antigo, where it is now undergoing repairs.

Council Proceedings.

Moved by Alderman Stumpner and seconded by Alderman Olson that the appointments be confirmed. Carried.

Petition for transfer of liquor license was read.

Rhineland, Wisconsin.

August 31, 1903.

To the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Rhinelander. Gentlemen:

I hereby apply to have my liquor license transferred from the north twenty feet of the south forty feet of lot 4, block 21, Original Plat, to the south twenty-six feet of lot 5, block 26, Original Plat to the City of Rhinelander. Respectfully, Gokey Bros.

By Fred Gokey.

Moved by Alderman Ball and seconded by Alderman Dwyer that the application be granted. Carried.

The following petition was read:

To the Common Council of the City of Rhinelander:

We, the undersigned, do hereby petition your honorable body to grant permission to O. A. Higginson to proceed with the erection of a frame, iron-clad stage in the rear of the opera house building on Brown street in said city, and to complete the same, for the reason that it is in the nature of a public improvement which is practically desired by everyone.

Signed by Residents and Tax Payers.

Moved by Alderman Dwyer and seconded by Alderman Olson that said petition be laid on the table. Carried.

Bid from Thomas Innes for putting in the proposed sewer extension on Pelham street and on Stevens street, and also bid for laying of the water main across the Wisconsin river to the paper mill plant, was read.

Rhineland, Wisconsin.

September 1, 1903.

To the Board of Public Works of the City of Rhinelander. Gentlemen:

I hereby agree to put in the proposed sewer extension on Pelham street as per specifications in City Clerk's office, from the intersection of Davenport and Pelham streets to a point opposite line of lots 1 and 2 of block 27, Original Plat. The sewer to be eight inch, with proper connections 1 ft. for each adjoining lot. Complete, per running foot, eighty-five (85) cents.

For man-hole, to be used as a clean-out at end of run, complete, with extra heavy cast iron cover, thirty-eight dollars ($38.00).

Thomas Innes.

I hereby agree to install the proposed sewer extension on Stevens street as per specifications in City Clerk's office, from a point opposite line of lots 4 and 5, block 19, Original Plat, north to intersection of Rivers and Stevens street, and from there branch out to two catch-basins, one on the northeast and one on the north-west corner of Rivers and Stevens streets. Sewer to be eight inch, with proper connections put in for all adjoining lots. Complete, per running foot, seventy-five (75) cents.

For each catch-basin, including extra heavy cast-iron cover, forty dollars ($40.00).

For man-hole, to be used as a clean-out at the intersection of Rivers and Stevens streets, complete, with cast-iron, extra heavy cover, thirty-eight dollars ($38.00).

Thomas Innes.

To Board of Public Works, City of Rhinelander. Gentlemen:

I hereby agree to furnish all labor to install the proposed water main from the junction of Thayer and Anderson streets to the west bank of the Wisconsin river and there connect with water main to be placed by city or other parties, the run of this pipe to be same as shown on map in office of City Clerk and Supt. of Water Works.

Also where main passes under C. & N. W. R. tracks, to furnish and properly lay a fifteen inch vitrified clay sewer pipe along side of water main, for the sum of two thousand eight hundred and fifty dollars ($2,850.00).

This is figured with the understanding that the city secure a permit from the railroad company to cross their tracks, and that the city or railroad company furnish the piles and drive them on each side of ditch where it crosses the tracks, 1 to furnish all other braces or supports needed.

Thomas Innes.

On motion a recess of five minutes was taken by council to consider said bids.

Council in order, it was moved by Alderman Gilligan and seconded by Alderman Crofoot that the bid of Thomas Innes for laying of Pelham street sewer be accepted. Carried, all of the aldermen voting aye.

THE "WAVE MEKE."

Graceful and Refined Dance Performed by William Malenda.

"The Filipinos call their dances 'meke,' and the best of them all is the 'wave meke,'" says a traveler who has witnessed these graceful evolutions. "A lot of pretty girls, in two or three rows, act the movements of the sea as it rolls in upon the reefs."

"First of all they bend down in unison and sweep the ground slowly with their hands, waving their fingers in order to represent the little wavelets flicked by the wind. Then they sway their bodies to and fro to show the long roll of the tropical wave, and presently their figures rise and fall as do the breakers. The action of the dance becomes more and more violent. The wave is dashing up the barrier reef. The girls spring forward and clap their hands and then drop to the ground with a long musical cry. The wave has surmounted the reef and emptied itself into the glassy lagoon. The dance is over."

"Every movement of the 'wave meke' is graceful and refined. The best ballet girls in any American theater are not better trained than these young Filipinos, who send a good deal of their happy, carefree, lay lives dancing their 'meke' or playing in the surf. There are no face dancers in the world. Nearly all their talks describe the scenes around them or the incidents of their daily life. Other 'meke' picture the palms swaying in the breeze, the canoes tossing in a gale and the clouds sailing across the sky."

Readiness in Exercise.

General Alexander McDowell McCook had a story illustrative of readiness in exercise which he used to tell occasionally. Some raw troops were drawn up for their first battle. They were on marshy ground, under fire, and ankle deep in slush. One of the soldiers was noticed to be trembling excessively, and his fear might communicate itself to his comrades. An officer approached him.

"Here you, what are you trembling for?" demanded the officer. "Stop it, or you'll demoralize the company. You are in no more danger than any one else. Don't be afraid!"

"I-I am not a-a afraid," chattered the soldier. "I-I had theague last year, and-and standing still in this mud so long has-brought it on again. W-w-wouldn't it be a good idea to r-run a little and get warmed up?"

Philosophy.

"My son," said the sage, "It has been observed by many wise men, and even by fools, that enjoyment is rather in anticipation than in realization. The events to which we look forward most hopefully are apt to prove disappointing."

"But," said the disciple, "is it wise to anticipate disappointment and thus kill about the only chance of enjoyment we have?"

And the old man stroked his white beard and said he would think it over.

LYNCH LAW.

It May Have Taken Its Name From a Mayor of Galway.

About the year 1900 one James Fitzsimmons Lynch was mayor of the town of Galway, in Ireland. He had sent his son on a trading expedition to Spain with a good cargo and a large sum of money. The young man returned with a ship load of valuable commodities, which he reported as having been purchased by his son. The mayor demanded payment, as his son asserted he had paid in cash for the goods. Unfortunately for the latter, a sailor who had been one of the crew on examination by Mayor Lynch declared that his young man had sent in reckless disregard not only the money entrusted to him, but the proceeds of the cargo as well; that he had then bought goods from a large firm on credit, and that when one of the partners of the firm came down to the ship before sailing to receive the money young Lynch snatched the man and had him thrown overboard to conceal the facts from his father.

The young man was immediately arrested and brought before his father, who, notwithstanding the fearful overtures of his wife and daughters, sentenced him to death. He took him up stairs in his warehouse, adjusted a rope around his neck, having first secured it to the wall, and then pushed the young man out of the window, where his dying struggles were witnessed by the inhabitants of the town of Galway. In the town records this entry is yet to be seen:

"James Lynch, mayor of Galway, hanged his own son out of the window for defrauding and killing strangers, without martial or common law, to show a good example to posterity."

It may be from that incident that Lynch law took its name. It is not a peculiar American institution, as is commonly supposed, but has been practiced in other countries. The English had a wicked town called Newlyn in the name of Lydford, which became noted for the summary punishments inflicted on notorious offenders. They became proverbial in England as Lydford law, and it is not impossible that Lynch may be a corruption of Lydford. In Scotland it was known as "Jedburgh justice."

James Lynch, a justice of the peace in one of the Piedmont counties in Virginia, whose methods were both summary and severe, is also credited with having given his name to this offhand and expeditious mode of dealing with criminals now generally known as Lynch law.—Pittsburg Gazette.

General Grant's Supreme Courage.

General Grant's courage was so pronounced. No man could face danger with greater composure. He did not seem to know the meaning of peril when duty called him to risk his life. At one time he saw the general escape death by a very slight margin. We were breaking camp at Spottsylvania Court House and under the fire of a Confederate battery. All of the headquarters baggage had been removed except a camp stool, and on this the general was sitting, while the shells of the enemy's guns shrieked over our heads. A shell passed just over the general not missing him apparently by more than a few inches, and struck the ground about thirty feet away. Without showing the slightest nervousness he called to me to get the shell, saying, "Let's see what kind of ammunition that battery is using." I went and picked up the shell, which was a six pound spherical case, and the general examined it as coolly as if there was not an enemy's gun within 100 miles of him.—National Magazine.

A Snap at Whistler.

A young San Francisco, the owner of a large and valuable collection of autographs, once wrote to James McNeill Whistler, politely requesting his signature. The letter was sent in care of the London Royal academy, with which the famous American painter was at odds. After four months the letter was returned to the San Francisco address from the dead letter office in Washington. Covering the envelope was the word, repeated numberless times, "Unknown."

The Real Force.

"Man does his best when he is hard put to it. Necessity, you know, is the mother of invention," said the observer of men and things.

"Yes," replied the benighted, "but if necessity were invention's mother-in-law, then you'd see how invention would have to bump itself."—Philadelphia Press.

The Value of a Vacation.

A vacation pays as much from the standpoint of character as from any other point of view. Just as "every man is a rascal when he is sick," so the best intentioned man in the world may be a brute when he is worn out physically and working and planning or trying to do so with a fagged, weary brain. The brutal qualities in a man's nature come to the surface when he has drained his vitality to the dregs. He loses his self control and his passions get the better of him. He does things which in his soul he condemns and says things for which he afterward laments himself, and all because he lacks physical stamina. The long strain of the year has made him so irritable and exacting that the merest trifle upsets him. He goes all to pieces over little things which he would not even notice if he were in good bodily condition.—Success.

American Grit.

"I'm used to being drowned," writes a Kansas City merchant. "But it is crowding the merchants to have the price of beef rise because the Missouri river dries. That Lumberman stream, which now takes away your farm in the night and transfers it to your neighbor, now annexes his holdings to your own, now overflows you altogether. Is a good symbol of American fortune. Bury the dead, get a new suit of clothes on credit, and to work again!—Everybody's Magazine.

An Old Jewish Cemetery.

The most interesting sight in Prague is the old Jewish cemetery. It is in the center of the city, surrounded by thick walls. There are thousands of ancient moss covered slabs, some bearing inscriptions of great antiquity which only Hebrew scholars can decipher. The cemetery is unused, but no other Jewish burial ground in Europe can compare with it for age or general interest to the antiquarian.

He will devote all his time to the management of the business.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME

STOP PAYING RENT.

The North Wisconsin Home Association will build you a home anywhere in America for the money you are now paying for rent.

The North Wisconsin Home Association charges you NO INTEREST on your money. The 75 cents a week is ALL you have to pay until your contract matures. As soon as your contract matures we give you the deed of your property in your own name. Save 75 cents a week and we will build you an elegant home for it.

Save 101 cents a day and for it we will build you a home that you will be proud of. Be your own boss in your own home. Stop paying rent. You receive nothing in return for it. Let your rent money be the foundation for a home of your own. The money you are now paying for rent would soon purchase a home of your own.

Take out a contract now and in case of sickness when your earnings stop, the Association will pay your installments.

The North Wisconsin Home Association is a great co-operative partnership in which all the contract holders pay a few cents a week into the Home Fund and as fast as the money accumulates it is loaned out to the contract holders WITHOUT INTEREST.

On a $1,000 contract you pay 75 cents a week until your contract matures—no more no less.

You may purchase as many contracts as you wish.

The earlier you take out a contract the sooner you own your own home.

The New York Press is having a controversy with itself as to whether a news or a story. It depends a great deal on the item.

"Adventure" was the only English word known by a Hungarian girl who reached Chicago the other day, but with this key to prosperity in her possession naturally she got along all right.

In the attempted trial of Prof. Langley's ship the only obstacle encountered was that it wouldn't work. Of course, the result was a great disappointment to the interested scientists, but it is believed that they will get used to this in the course of a few more trials.

The Deutschland has clipped three minutes from the run between Cherbourg and Sandy Hook. She covered the 2181 miles in five days, 11 hours and 34 minutes, an average speed of nearly 23 land miles an hour. The five-day ship will be along within the next ten days.

Two generals, four colonels, eight captains and 163 soldiers are kept day and night in the palace at Constantinople to protect the sultan. Abdul would be a heap safer, says the Chicago Chronicle, if he turned the whole crowd out and hired two or three Chicago women with hat pins.

The new American newspaper for the Orient may be called the China Morning Post all right but it is taking jolly good care to avoid taking any chances with the empress dowager by being published in Hong-Kong. The trouble with the dowager is that she has too much of a tendency to reduce editors to mere headless items.

Australia is drawing the color line, and doing so in far more drastic fashion than has been tried in any other country. It has enacted a law calling for the deportation of all Polynesians within three years. Australia is determined to make of itself a white man's country and this is one of the steps taken with that end in view.

Men have demonstrated the fine results of scientific breeding on nearly all animals except man himself. Will the time ever come when the state will interfere with the free selection of man and woman in order to improve the quality of the race? Most of us would like to see the experiment tried—on the other fellow.

Notwithstanding the impressive statistics showing that the chance of being struck by lightning is as one to 10,000,000, or something in that neighborhood, the fatalities of a recent storm in central Indiana will prove that there is more influence in a stroke of lightning than in any number of figures. The people who are afraid of thunderstorms will be more afraid than ever.

Commander Robert E. Peary is to make another attempt to cut his initials in the north pole. If Peary likes that sort of business, all right; let him go. Most people find winters in the temperate zone plenty cold enough, and believe that even at the high price of fuel the pole would not be worth its cost for kindling wood. If Peary would start a line of the barges to compete for the summer trade he would be really a public benefactor.

The committee appointed by the secretary of the treasury to examine the vouchers and verify the accounts of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company have reported that the vouchers are in proper form and show, as claimed, an expenditure on the part of the company of $10,037,319. The $5,000,000 appropriated in aid of the exposition therefore is now available and has been placed to the credit of the company.

In his recent notable address on the relative educational activity and progress in Great Britain and the United States Sir Norman Lockyer gave a new version of the maxim, "Trade follows the flag." After pointing out how much more money is invested and expended in higher education in this country than in Great Britain, he said: "Trade follows the brain." There is a large element of truth in this, because American brains carry trade in many quarters where the flag does not go.

A statement issued by the department of commerce and labor gives an interesting comparison which shows the growth of the commerce of the United States from the year 1892. It appears that our imports have increased from $168,000,000, the figures for the first mentioned year, to $1,025,000,000 for the present year, while exports have augmented from $117,000,000 to $1,420,000,000. This is an increase of $772,000,000 in imports. It further appears that our dealings with every country have increased, the gain in some instances being quite extraordinary.

Dr. Wiley, chemical expert of the government, says he has become satisfied that only a small proportion of the alleged European wines sold in this country are genuine. He says they are ingenious imitations and that for years the United States has been the dumping ground for all kinds of inferior, mislabeled wines that are unmarketable in Europe. Under a recent act of congress these adulterated and manufactured wines can be excluded, and will be as soon as necessary arrangements can be made for enforcing the law.

The old union soldiers are disappearing rapidly. They are dying at the rate of about $9,000 annually, which means that the "grand army" which accomplished such a great work in the civil war will soon be wholly disbanded. It could not be otherwise. Most of the boys in blue were young men, but in 40 years since the conflict was in full swing, and that space of time makes quite a difference even to the man who was a youth in the war. The falling off in the number of the veterans is also shown in the decreased amount of the pension disbursements.

C. O. Slater was found dead at Olean, N. Y. The body was in a sitting posture and the coroner is of the opinion that Slater was choked to death by a high collar which he was wearing.

The yacht Red Dragon was wrecked in the storm near Atlantic City, N. J. The bodies of Capt. Dewitt Clark and a sailor were washed ashore. Three other sailors are missing.

THE SULTAN IS VERY CONTRITE

Expresses Regret at Excesses Committed by Turkish Troops.

REPETITION TO BE PREVENTED

Says the Sultan Will Be Punished—Thinks Insurrection Unavoidable in a Case—Believes That War Will Be Averted.

Constantinople, Sept. 21.—In an audience with M. Zinoeff, the Russian ambassador, Friday, the sultan expressed his regret at the excesses committed by the Turkish troops in the vilayets of Monastir and Adrianople. He said that orders had been sent to the authorities concerned to prevent their repetition, and he gave the Russian ambassador to understand that the guilty parties would be punished.

The German ambassador, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, also had an audience with the sultan, who showed himself most optimistic. The latter declared that the insurrection was drawing to a close. In fact, it had already been suppressed in some districts, and the ports would, therefore, immediately issue proclamations announcing the resumption of the application of the reform scheme.

After the granting of these audiences an extraordinary council of ministers was held at Yildiz Kiosk, and the deliberations were continued on Saturday. It is understood that the council drew up fresh instructions to the valis in the sense of his majesty's declaration.

Official dispatches from the valis of Salonica, Monastir and Adrianople report numerous encounters which resulted in favor of the Turks.

At an ultimatum.
Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 21.—Some apprehension having apparently been created owing to a misunderstanding regarding the precise meaning of Bulgaria's last note to the powers, explanations have been given to some diplomatic agents here that the memorandum was not intended as an ultimatum, but was rather in the nature of an appeal for the intervention of the great powers before that intervention should be initiated.

The Bulgarian ministry, it was stated, was determined to maintain its attitude of neutrality up to the last moment, but it feels the impossibility of standing by indefinitely while the Turks exterminate the Bulgarian element in Macedonia. The government's position is rendered increasingly difficult by the attitude of the Macedonian population in Bulgaria, which, vigorously backed up by the revolutionary committee, is persistently endeavoring to force the government's hand and provoke hostilities with Turkey.

War Not Imminent.
London, Sept. 21.—It is feared that war between Turkey and Bulgaria is not now regarded as imminent by the foreign office or other diplomatic centers in London. It is stated that under circumstances will the powers permit Turkey to occupy Bulgarian territory, but that Turkey has nothing to gain by hostilities at the present time.

Regarding the renewed rumors that a British fleet is going to Turkish waters it is officially announced that as Italian matters have been left in the hands of Russia and Austria such action is not contemplated by Great Britain, or so far as known, by any other power. In the meantime the powers are daily exchanging communications with the view of determining on some possible means of restoring order in European Turkey, but so far they have devised no plan that would not be likely to increase rather than diminish the gravity of the situation.

One Man Held.
Chicago, Sept. 21.—The coroner's jury investigating the recent car barn murders recommended release of all suspects excepting John Slender, who was held as an accessory before and after the fact. The prisoner denies all knowledge of the crime.

The Proper Place.
"Say," remarked Kerwin, "I'm looking for a silent partner to invest some money in my business. Where can I find one?"

"Well," replied his friend Parker, "you might apply at the dead and dumb asylum."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

SOLDIER LOSES HIS LIFE

Terrible Fate of Member of Michigan National Guard.

Thrown Under Wheels of Train and Decapitated—A Comrade Is Fatally Injured.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 21.—John Delator had his head cut off and John Mann was fatally injured Sunday evening by an accident on the bridge street bridge. Both were members of Company B, Second regiment, Michigan National Guard, and were returning from rifle practice at Berlin, riding on a Muehlen Interurban line combination baggage and passenger coach. The soldiers were sitting in the doorway of the baggage compartment, swinging their feet, when the car ran on to the bridge. Delator's feet caught in the iron work of the bridge and he was suddenly jerked from the doorway and thrown beneath the wheels of the car. He was decapitated. In falling he clutched at Mann and partially dragged him from the car. Mann had one leg broken and received other injuries that will be fatal.

STATE SENATOR ARRESTED.

Prominent New Yorker Taken Into Custody in Connection with Postal Frauds.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21.—An arrest which has been expected for some time occurred Saturday when Post Office Inspector Walter S. Mayer, of Chicago, and Deputy United States Marshal Foster Black, of this city, arrested State Senator George E. Green, at the office of his attorneys, Roberts, Tutill and Rogers.

Green was arrested before United States Commissioner Hall and entered a plea of not guilty and his bail was fixed at $10,000. Jonas M. Kilmer, qualifying as his surety. The examination will be held Tuesday, September 22.

Senator Green was arrested on two warrants, one charging him with conspiracy to defraud the government in bribing George W. Beavers to purchase the international time recorders for the government at $100 each; the second for offering Beavers a bribe of ten per cent. on clock sales to the government.

Fort Smith, Ark., Sept. 21.—Judge Russell, mayor of Gans, I. T., Sunday morning shot and instantly killed two rangers of Cherokee blood, named Puck Martin and Jim Shotts, who were advancing upon a son of the mayor with knives and with the expressed intention of cutting his throat. Mayor Russell interfered and the men advanced upon him, when he fired. Both men fell in their tracks dead.

Sent to Prison.
Central City, Neb., Sept. 21.—Rev. H. A. Gould, a Free Methodist preacher, who eloped with Eva Flint, a 15-year-old girl, last March, was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary. He was tried under the kidnapping law passed by the state legislature after the Cudahy kidnapping in Omaha, and his conviction was the first under that statute. He had a wife and five small children.

Dropped Dead.
Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 21.—Walter Fisher, a member of the D. H. Baldwin Co., piano dealers of Cincinnati, dropped dead in the Seventh Avenue hotel. Five weeks ago he had been operated upon for appendicitis, and his death is supposed to be the result of some unforeseen complication of that disease.

Have to Settle in Mexico.
Monterey, Mex., Sept. 21.—Gen. W. D. Smyman, one of the leaders of the Boer army during the recent war, has moved his entire family to the new colony site purchased near Oriz station on the Mexican Central, and announces that 50 families are on the way from South Africa to join him.

Cashier Missing.
Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Llewellyn Smith, who has been employed for the past seven years as trusted cashier and bookkeeper for the firm of Erick Bros., coal commission merchants of East Buffalo, has disappeared, and the offices have been temporarily closed. The shortage will not exceed $20,000.

In Prison.

"Are you acquainted with Mrs. Tobey?"

"Yes, we have a passing acquaintance."

"Oh, as much as that?"

"Yes, we were at the same card table once. She passed and so did I."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Then," said the first mosquito, "you were still singing when the man endeavored to eat you?"

"Oh, yes! I had just finished the recitative and begun the aria."—Puck

WILL MAINTAIN HIS ATTITUDE

President Will Not Submit to Dictation by Labor.

WILL NOT DISMISS MILLER

Acknowledges Receipt of Protest of Washington Labor Union, But Has No Far More to Reply to the Resolutions.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Dispatches from Oyster Bay say President Roosevelt has declared he will not be dictated to or intimidated by the labor unions in the case of Bookbinder Miller, now at work in the government printing office. The president has received a set of unfriendly resolutions from the Central Labor union of Washington, and has sent to the secretary of the organization a formal reply, which is merely to the effect that he has received the communication. It is not probable that the president will vouchsafe any further answer to the union, but undoubtedly will take some measures soon to counteract the effect of the antagonistic action.

Will Refuse Demand.
"May be stated emphatically and almost officially," says the dispatch from Oyster Bay, "that President Roosevelt will not accede to the demand of the union by ordering the dismissal of Miller. The president is a member of one of the affiliated bodies, and is in thorough sympathy with all the legitimate aims of the men who toll. He will not and cannot, however, allow the unions, as he regards the question, to override the laws and the rules of the government departments simply because they are unions and have power at the polls. President Roosevelt announced to a friend several weeks ago when the Miller case came up that rather than accede to such demands he would go down to defeat. 'But I'll go down fighting for what I think is right,' he is quoted as saying."

Federation to Act.
At its meeting in this city to-day the American Federation of Labor is to consider the question raised by the local unions against President Roosevelt. Individually, the officers of the American Federation of Labor and other members of the executive committee have given their indorsement to the movement brought against the administration on account of its attitude toward organized labor in connection with the printing office controversy. As a body, the federation has taken no part, and at least one prominent officer has said the question must be met by the different affiliated organizations according to the majority of their members. It is known, however, the resolutions will be laid before the executive committee and will be discussed with a view to giving advice to the bookbinders, which organization is conducting the political war instituted against President Roosevelt.

Acknowledges the Protest.
Oyster Bay, L. I., Sept. 21.—Secretary Loeb sent a letter to the Central Labor union of Washington Saturday, formally acknowledging the receipt of the authorized resolutions adopted by that body rebuking the president for what the unions consider hostility toward organized labor as shown by his action in the Miller case. The letter was merely a perfunctory acknowledgment, and contained no comment on the resolutions. The president will not at this time take any action regarding the Central Labor union's criticism of him, but it is understood here that he will do so later.

TO DEAD VETERANS.

Monument Erected by Old Soldiers of Illinois, Installed at Greenview.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 21.—One of the most notable events of the fall among the old soldiers of Illinois was the unveiling at Greenview Saturday of a magnificent monument to the memory of 1,500 deceased veterans. Lieut. Gov. Northcott presided. Gov. Richard Yates, Gen. John C. Black, of Chicago, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic; Benson Wood, of Edinburg, state commander of the grand army; Congressman Rodenberg, Judge John B. Hay, adjutant of the One Hundred and Thirtieth, and other noted orators, were present and delivered addresses. The annual reunion of the One Hundred and Thirtieth Illinois volunteer regiment and the fourteenth annual reunion of the Bond County Soldiers and Sailors' association were held in connection and thousands of strangers were present.

Prominent Physician Dead.
Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Dr. Egbert Guernsey, the eminent homoeopathic physician of New York city, died at his summer home here of pneumonia. He was 50 years old and was well known in American medical circles as editor of the Medical Times, and president of the Metropolitan Hospital, New York.

Assumes Command of Forces.
San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 21.—Lieut. Col. Charles J. Crane, of the Eighth infantry, arrived at Ponce Friday afternoon, and was received with military honors. He has formally assumed command of the forces in Porto Rico, relieving Col. James Buchanan.

Judge Fatally Injured.
New Orleans, Sept. 21.—Judge Fred J. King, of the civil district court, while crossing Canal street at the intersection of Harrison, was struck by a runaway team and it is believed fatally injured.

RESIGNS HIS HIGH POSITION

Lord Balfour, of Burleigh, Quits the British Cabinet.

WAS SCOTLAND'S SECRETARY

Mr. Elliott, Financial Secretary of the Treasury, Also Resigns—Both Resignations Are Accepted by King Edward.

London, Sept. 21.—Lord Balfour, of Burleigh, secretary for Scotland, and Arthur Ralph Douglas Elliot, financial secretary to the treasury, have resigned, and their resignations have been accepted by the king. Mr. Elliot was not in the cabinet. These two resignations make a total of four vacant cabinet posts and one secretaryship at Mr. Balfour's disposal.

King Approves Changes.
London, Sept. 21.—The Observer says King Edward, in the course of his audience with Premier Balfour, approved certain changes in the ministry. Mr. Balfour, the Observer adds, will probably make official announcement of the new appointments to-day or Tuesday, but this announcement is likely to be incomplete, as the premier will not be able to perfect the reconstruction of the cabinet until the duke of Devonshire, the lord president of the council, shall decide what course he will adopt.

Sole Topic of Discussion.
London, Sept. 21.—The political crisis is still the sole topic of discussion in the United Kingdom. Premier Balfour was expected to have an audience of King Edward at Balmoral, where he was expected to present the nominations for the cabinet vacancies. The exact nature of these appointments still continues a matter of varied surmise.

Regarding the eventual result of the upheaval, the Spectator forecast, that Mr. Balfour, when he appeals to the country, will be beaten and succeeded by a Rosebery cabinet, which will not last long, attracts the greatest attention.

Balfour Criticized.
A curious phase of the situation is the severe criticism, regardless of party lines, bestowed on Mr. Balfour's action in publishing his views and selling them in pamphlet form. The premier's keen sense of chivalry and honor is far too deeply appreciated by all parties to even permit the suggestion that he purposely adopted the doubtful practice. By Mr. Balfour's own admission, he is a "mere child in such matters," and his inexperience in business affairs now appears to have put him at the mercy of the publishers of the pamphlet, who are coining money over the vital issue in national affairs. That Mr. Balfour will devote his portion of the proceeds to some charity is generally assumed, but it is regretted that he did not mention some such intention in the preface of the pamphlet.

Comment on the Outlook.
The Outlook, which is a warm supporter of the premier, declares Mr. Balfour's indiscretion "strikes a blow at once to the reverence for the traditions of English public life, when a public servant's position seems to be used for private gain, no matter whose."

The Outlook estimates that the profits on 100,000 copies alone will be over $17,000, of which Mr. Balfour will receive a large share. The pamphlet promises to reach a sale of a million copies. In the meantime there are no pamphlets in print, and the copies printed have reached a premium, many of them selling for 50 cents, double the price of the issue. Mr. Balfour's party managers openly proclaim grave dissatisfaction. In the first place, they say they cannot get any more copies for their impatient constituents, and they add that they object to paying for literature which is supposed to be the most powerful aid in keeping the government in power.

Reports Chamberlain in Retirement.
The press learns from an authoritative source that Mr. Balfour expects Mr. Chamberlain to reenter the cabinet in the event that an appeal to the country returns Mr. Balfour to power. Both desire, however, that the elections be postponed so long as possible, in order to give Mr. Chamberlain the opportunity to impress his views on the people. If the government is returned, or if a weak liberal ministry is retained in power only a short time, Mr. Balfour anticipates that he and Mr. Chamberlain will reorganize a new ministry. According to an authority thoroughly cognizant with Mr. Chamberlain's plans, Mr. Balfour might then and Mr. Chamberlain unwilling to join him.

Died of His Injuries.
Chicago, Sept. 21.—Nathan Butler Swift, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Swift, died Sunday morning at his father's Lake Forest residence as a result of an accidental injury in a polo game Saturday afternoon, played between the "Red and Blue" teams of the Owenwille club. Mr. Swift was struck by the ball over the ear by his team mate.

Fatal Accident in a Mine.
Brazil, Ind., Sept. 21.—Benjamin Boothe, a coal operator, was instantly killed and his brother, Joseph Boothe, was seriously injured in their coal mine by the roof falling in.

Two Lives Lost.
Brownsville, Pa., Sept. 21.—Two men were instantly killed in a freight wreck on the Monongahela railroad at Bridgeport Sunday.

The Military Ills of England and Their Cause

Her Paper War Strength Can Never Be Realized Under Present Conditions.

THROUGH the medium of the English press and the army blue book Britain is learning over again the lessons of the Boer war, and men high and low are asking "What is being done to remedy the costly defects and mistakes of the past?"

Seldom has any nation with great resources gone into a war less prepared than England when she attempted to conquer the sturdy burghers of South Africa. She learned her lack of preparedness through the school of experience. Even before the British Tommy Atkins had ceased retreating from in front of Boer bullets in South Africa Lord Lansdowne found the enemy's line at home gaining in strength with a rapidity that threatened evil to his political future. Lord Wolsey, as commander in chief of the British forces, though his position was much like that occupied by Gen. Miles in this country, one of rank and title more than of authority, came in for a large share of the criticism that was being distributed without partiality by the British public, and was sacrificed on the altar of public opinion for the sake of his political aspirations.

A wave of popular approval followed the promotion of Lord Roberts to the head of the army, for, in the estimation of the British public, Lord Roberts was one of the do-something kind from whom results might be expected. But even the popular little "Bobs" the one-time idol of England, is now getting into disrepute because he is not accomplishing the impossible and making the English army in reality all that is claimed for it on paper.

On paper England is one of the great military nations of Europe and the world, of whom other powers are expected to stand in awe. In history the periodism of her sons and the genius of her generals have at times accomplished wonders, as for instance, they quelled the terrible Napoleon at the time he was weakest. But though there is the result of some happy accidents in history, it is dimmed to a certain extent by some memorable defeats, as, for instance, two whippings by this country when we were small, and a fairly good trouncing by the Boers before her inexhaustible resources brought a final victory out of defeat.

On paper England musters an army of 1,170,000 men—according to no less an English authority than Mr. Charles S. Jerram, author of an entertaining volume entitled, "The Armies of the World." Yet no self-respecting Englishman would admit that there was anything like a third of this number of men in the field in South Africa, though the officials of the country admit that the nation has practically reached the limit of its resources in men unless the draft was resorted to, or the colonies came to the rescue with increased numbers of troops.

This paper army, it must be remembered, included not only the regular establishment of Great Britain, but the army reserve, the militia, the yeomanry and the volunteers at home, the native and English forces in India, and the militia forces of all the colonies. The following table showing England's military forces is copied from Mr. Jerram's valuable volume:

Army at home and abroad, including India	2,200,000
Reserve	2,000,000
Militia	2,000,000
Yeomanry	2,000,000
Volunteers	2,000,000
Native army of India	2,000,000
European volunteers in India	2,000,000
Imperial service troops	2,000,000
Canadian militia	2,000,000
Canadian militia reserve	2,000,000

THE ENGLISH MILITARY SCHOOL AT WOOLWICH.

have to be learned all over again when another war comes. But the main trouble seems to be that England expects her generals and army officials to keep her army on a volunteer enlistment basis on an equality with the armies of other European nations operating on a compulsory military service basis. It is a task that is practically impossible.

All the children of the East side, especially the Hungarians, have a wonderful gift of language.

"Scientists," remarked the man who reads on the train, "have discovered a way to make gold out of silver."

"That's all right," replied the man with the loud necktie, "but I knowed a feller in New York once what discovered a way to make silver and gold and paper out of plain brass. He modeled the bricks himself."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

ADAPTING FOREIGNERS.

How the Little Children Begin to Acquire Knowledge in the United States.

The foreign parents of East side children realize that knowledge—especially knowledge of the language—is power. In the class room, as on the street, the conflicting racial characteristics of the children of different nationalities, the influence of heredity, home life and environment, are all strikingly exemplified, says Everybody's Magazine. The teachers soon come to realize that the surest way to spur the Jewish boys on to renewed efforts in their studies is to tell them constantly stories of the positions of power and wealth which await boys who have the education to fill them, stories of other boys who have grown up to all such positions.

Fall and Winter Fashion Notes

IN THESE days of the short skirt we feel smarter and happier in the country than we have done in previous years. The trowsie skirt can be so chic in tweeds and fine knitted plaids, especially in company with the short Norfolk coat. Some of these Norfolk coats have only two plaits back and front, and no waist-bands, but they are beautifully cut, and are quite short on the hips. I think, however, that I prefer the old style, with its leather band and general appearance of workmanlike neatness.

Smart folks are wearing a great deal of brown serge, as well as heather mixtures. Blue serge, of course, still holds its own. The ideal fishing costume is in a greeny mixture, but this is only becoming to fair women, although dark ones will persist in wearing it.

Sac coats are worn in town, but in the country, tight-fitting coat, or the Norfolk jacket caught in at the waist. So we may say that, once again, tailor-made frocks are showing the figure. Even the neatly stitched bolero has a

Our Invasion of Canada and Annexation Sentiment

The Latter Is Not Noticeable in the Dominion Save on the Dollar and Cents Basis.

THE "American Invasion of Canada" is no longer a meaningless phrase. It is an invasion in reality, and one which is assuming such proportions as to cause the Canadians to think seriously of what the end may be. It is an invasion both of people and products.

Across the borders of the central and western states our farmers are flocking to the free lands of the northwest in much the same way as they flocked to these western states but a few years ago. But a few days ago an old Canadian in Ontario explained the reason of this to me:

"These men who are now crossing the border went into your western states but a few years ago with nothing," he said. "They took homesteads which the government offered them free of charge; they have improved them and cultivated them; the country has developed until to-day they can dispose of the holdings which came to them as a gift from their government and have only to move across the border to get new farms again on the same terms upon which they got their first ones."

Seven years ago there were comparatively no Americans in western Canada. Manitoba had probably a dozen families from the states. They got in tries; we want a place to sell our grain and our lumber. It is that tariff which keeps us poor."

That is it. I have heard the same sentiments expressed in Canada practically from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and if annexation ever comes it will be because love of the dollar has outgrown the love for England. It will not be because they love England less, but because they love the dollar more.

Will the American immigrant to Canada influence a sentiment for annexation? Will he grow homesick? Will he wish for the old flag to fly over his school house and his home? The chances are that he will not unless the desire be born of love for the dollar.

Canada will give him as good a government as he has ever known; it will give him as many liberties, as many opportunities for himself and family in the way of education and refinement, and as many or more privileges than he knew in the States. But when he sells his wheat for a few cents less per bushel, and his cattle for a trifle less per pound than he knows his old neighbor in the States is getting his love for the dollar may, we say, mingle within him a sentiment for annexation. Surrounded as he is by immigrants from every nation over which a flag of civilization flies, and who care no more for the union jack than they do for the yellow banner of Spain from a sentimental point, with neighbors from Sweden, from Denmark, from Russia, from Finland, from Austria, from everywhere have least of all England, it would be easy to spread this sentiment for annexation when annexation means dollars.

There is yet another element which is doing its small part to spread the annexation sentiment. That element is the Canadians who come to the States to live, and there are thousands of them. In 1900 the total number of native born Canadians residing in the United States was 1,019,000, or nearly one to five of the people in Canada. They find more ready employment, larger opportunities for financial advancement here than at home, and, as a rule being of the younger element, are prone even to exaggerate the difference when reporting to friends in Canada. A clerk in a Toronto store said to me this morning:

"I get but six dollars a week here, and have to work three nights each week, while I have a brother clerking in a store in Cincinnati who gets $12 a week without any night work. I am going over there to live this fall."

An old gentleman, a resident of a little village in northern Ontario, told me of a young friend he had in Chicago.

"He is a brick mason," he said, "and he is making five and six dollars a day over there, while over here he never got better than $1.00."

He was comparing city conditions with those of the country, but he didn't know it, and was advising his young friends to go to the States for better wages. He was true to his homeland, he would die under the protection of the union jack, but time had carried him past the day of the love of the dollar.

The younger element have not outgrown it. The tales of fabulous wealth across the boundary line to the south are having an effect on those left at home.

There is a trade balance of $70,000,000 in our favor annually in our commercial dealings with Canada. We sold to her last year $125,000,000 worth of our products, and we bought of her $55,000,000 worth of her raw materials. These figures do not, by any means, represent the ratio in which Canada produces and consumes. The figures would be practically the other way if they did. The American customs officer prevents her shipping her products into this country without the payment of duty, while the customs officer of free-trade England does not, so she ships to England. But her own customs officers levy tribute on the importations from England in the same way they do on the importations from the States, though in a slightly less degree, so she buys from the States. The customs officer along the boundary between this nation and our northern neighbor is not a favorite with the people of that nation, and if there is no other means of dismissing him they may, may we say again, in time favor annexation as a last resort.

But it will be an annexation sentiment born of the love of the dollar.
